

Helps employers deal with new HRA complexities.

While the Patient Protection & Affordable Care Act (PPACA) gives employees more rights, complying with the new regulations means more responsibility for your busy HR Department.

The Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI) is charged with examining the outcomes, effectiveness, and appropriateness of different medical treatments. PCORI evaluates existing studies and conducts its own, with funding paid in part by employers who sponsor Health Reimbursement Arrangements.

TASC PCORI makes calculating and paying this new fee easy

TASC PCORI helps you decipher the confusion of this new requirement. The fee to fund PCORI will be imposed on employers and insurance carriers for seven years, with fee amounts expected to change during that time. In addition to meeting the annual July 31 PCORI fee deadline, employers must determine exactly which employees are affected. And while these evolving complexities are currently set to affect employers with Plan years ending 2012 through 2019, this time frame may change as well.

TASC PCORI Facilitates Peace of Mind

Why risk compliance by attempting to manage PCORI on your own? With years of employee benefits experience TASC is well-equipped to do this work for you.
